

1.

1. Economy - almost all other factors (security, health, culture) are influenced by the economic wealth
2. Infrastructure - being able to move around quickly is quite important to also enable other factors
3. International connectivity - jobs in many industries can now be done remotely, e.g. all IT-related work such as software development, cloud based infrastructure etc
4. Political stability - this also enables and controls local economic situations, e.g. here in Frankfurt concerning regulations around the financial sector
5. Safety and Health - The feeling of being in a safe environment is essential to be able to focus on the more important aspects of life

2.

1. Job, I work here
2. family, my family lives here
3. friends, my friends that I grew up with live here or can be reached easily
4. infrastructure, via plane/train I can reach almost any other part of the country/continent/world easily
5. safety and health - it's quite a safe place if you know which places to avoid

3.

1. Economy - 88
2. Infrastructure - 95
3. International connectivity - 97
4. Political stability - 92
5. Safety and Health - 88

Overall: 92 - quite a high standard compared to the rest of the world

4. Infrastructure - there's quite some potential to better deal with the increasing mass of travelers

5.

1. Copenhagen - infrastructure is there going much smoother (worked there for 9 months) and overall standard of living is higher, people are happier
2. New York - better in every aspect aside from jobs (higher competition)
3. Beijing - lower standard of living, yet larger population and more opportunities
